CHAPTER 1: INTRODUCTION

BACKGROUND

WHY NEGOTIATION?

- Centre of literature in conflict resolution (Fisher & Ury, 1981)
- It has been extended to become a central component of policymaking process (Alfredson & Cungu, 2008)
- Nature of negotiation: define issues, explore options, discover solution and also secure commitments

DEVELOPED COUNTRY
Negotiation:
part of legislative process and
a process of policy formulation
(Peritt, 1986)

VS

MALAYSIA PUBLIC SERVICE
Negotiation in policy development remains scarce
(Hishamudin, 2010; Jeshurun, 2007;
Natkunasingam & Sabaratnam, 1998)

PROBLEM STATEMENT

Implication: Conflicting interest among policy participants is not properly addressed

Implementing policies with unresolved issues will deprive the government's reputation and waste of resources

Most of policies in Malaysia were developed without a clear and structured process /framework

Limitation: The extent of communication and information exchange between policymakers and stakeholders

Huge gaps in the engagement process: mostly depends on the practice of Malaysia Public Service: Process and procedures of developing policy is neither well documented nor standardize (Abdul Gapar, 2010)

Existing policy : National Policy on the Development and Implementation of Regulation (NPDIR) does not sufficiently describe on public consultation

MAIN OBJECTIVE :

TO PROPOSE AN ENGAGEMENT APPROACH BY ADOPTING THE PRACTICE OF NEGOTIATION IN THE PROCESS OF POLICYMAKING

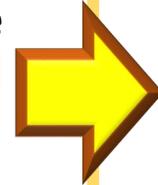

RESEARCH OBJECTIVES AND QUESTIONS

RESEARCH OBJECTIVES

RESEARCH QUESTIONS

1 To investigate the practice of negotiation in the policymaking process of the proposed National Halal Policy (NHP)

To what extent do policymakers negotiate with stakeholders in the process of setting the agenda of the proposed policy?

(a) What is the mechanism they use in engaging the stakeholders?

(b) How do they engage with the stakeholders?

2 To identify the arising issues faced by policymakers and stakeholders in setting the agenda of the proposed NHP

What are the arising issues faced by policymakers and stakeholders in setting the agenda of the proposed NHP?

3 To explore the suitable approach of negotiation adopted by policy participants in the policymaking process

How do the policy participants negotiate with each other in the process?

4 To develop a negotiation-based policymaking framework in the local system

How principled negotiation could be applied in the process of policymaking?

THEORETICAL FRAMEWORK

POLICY-RELATED CONFLICT RESOLUTION

Conflict could be resolved in the policy process

(Stephenson & Pops, 1989)

In order to effectively resolve conflict, one must be able to map it properly

(Sandole, 1998)

STAGE
(source of conflict)

ISSUES
(factors to conflict)

CONFLICT RESOLUTION
(Conflict Intervention)

AGENDA SETTING

ADVOCACY COALITION FORM

PRINCIPLED NEGOTIATION

What happens at the stage has a decisive impact on the entire policy process and outcome

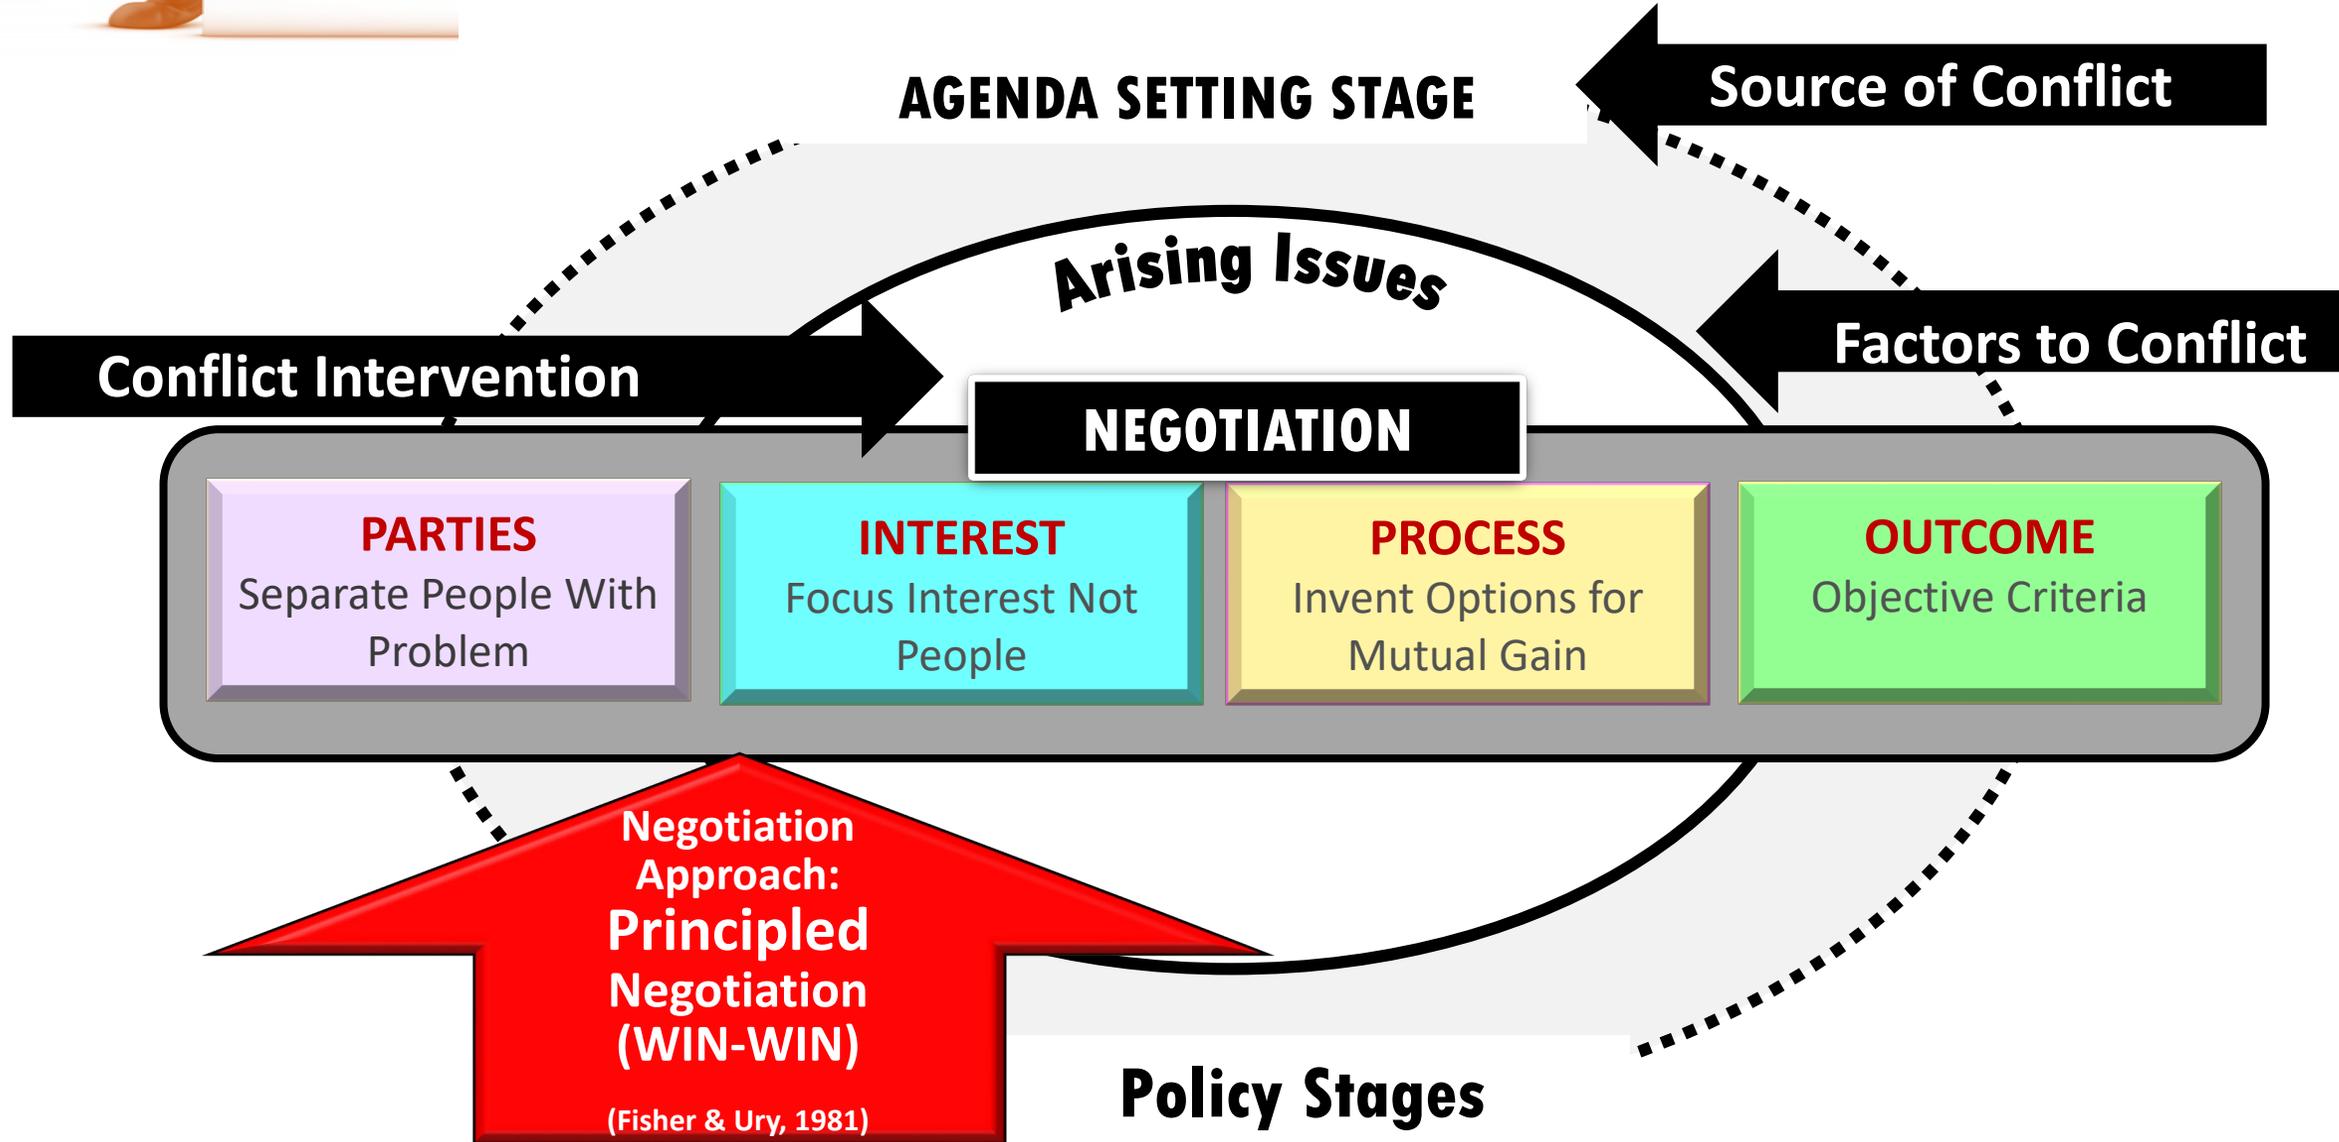

(Howlett&Ramesh, 2003)

...deal with intense public policy problem during policymaking process (Sabatier & Jenkins-Smith, 1999)

...based on integrative model which emphasizes joint problem solving (Patton, 2005)

RESEARCH GAP

No policy formulation model with an equivalent level of acceptance in Malaysia (Ansori, 2013)

Public administrators involved in policy are normally expected to anticipate the outcomes without proper procedures (Abdul Gapar, 2010)

The only available source : the practice of Regulatory Negotiation. However the approach might need further investigation before it is adopted due to different setting and context (Afrina, 2002)

Role of negotiation in the public consultation is not clearly explained (MPC, 2013)

Numerous studies on Halal practices, even negotiation in Halal (Norhayati Rafida et al, 2010) but on the practice and operation in the field. No discussion on negotiating Halal in the policy process

CHAPTER 3: RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

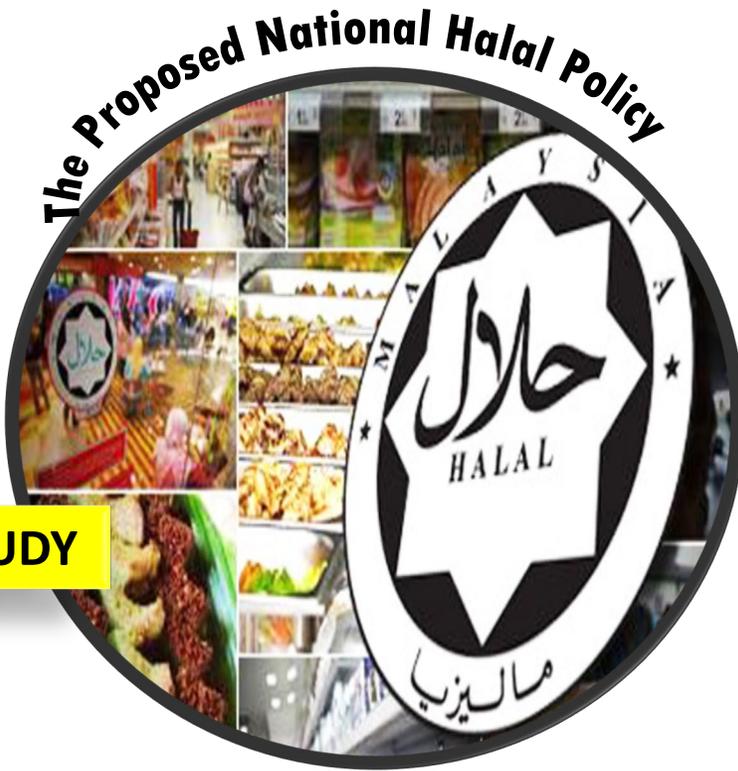

RESEARCH DESIGN

QUALITATIVE STUDY

- Require in-depth study relating to negotiation (Silverman, 2013)
- Exclusive experience of participants attending the session
- Qualitative and study of policy process (Grinell, 2007, O’Sullivan et al, 2003, Marshall & Rossman, 1999)

CASE STUDY

- Various Conflicting Interest
- Inadequate Communication
- At the Initial Stage of Process
- No Comprehensive Policy

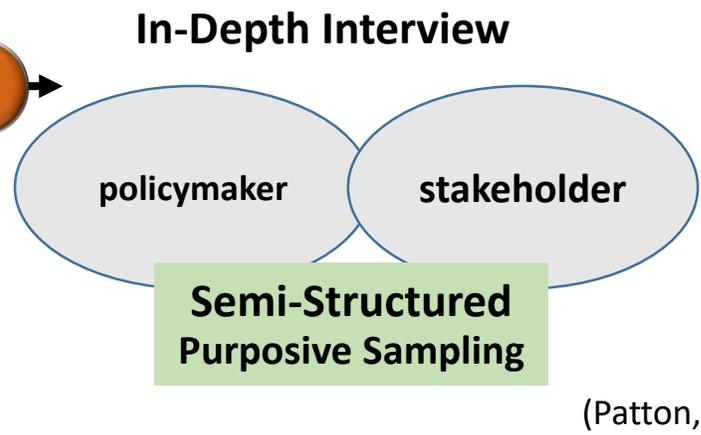

(Majlis Halal Malaysia, 2017)

1 Document Analysis

- Relevant Forms (mandatory)
- Meeting Kit
- Memos & Letter of Invitation
- Template Form for Discussion
- Final Proposal of the Discussion
- Discussion Photo of selected session

(Meriam & Tisdell, 2016)

3 Researcher’s Role

Researcher’s networking and experience in policy development

(Silverman, 2013)

POPULATION AND SAMPLING

No	Group of Participants	Criteria
Team A Policymakers	Representative from policymakers	directly involved in the policy discussions of the proposed NHP, representing the organiser, either as the Secretariat or the facilitator or the Committee for the discussion
Team B Stakeholder	Representative from key government agencies	directly invited and/or involved in the series of policy discussions towards the development of the proposed NHP. This includes policy discussions relating to HIMP 2.0. The current HIMP is developed as part of the roadmap in developing the proposed NHP
	Representative from business or industrial sectors
	Representative from academia or researcher or field expert
	Representative of any citizens, such as the interested group like NGOs

NEGOTIATION-BASED POLICYMAKING FRAMEWORK

SIGNIFICANT RESEARCH FINDING

25

The existing mechanism indicated negotiation is practiced with no structured guidance.

The practice inclines to indicate integrative negotiation is adopted (win-win approach)

Various functions at the agenda setting stage which gives room for principled negotiation to operate and to address the arising issues at the stage

Negotiation framework: guide the consultation in the process of policymaking based on

- (i) Existing practice
- (ii) Concern and suggestion of policy participants

It fills in the gap and provide better guidance for the consultation

NEGOTIATION- BASED POLICYMAKING FRAMEWORK IN THE POLICYMAKING PROCESS

27

CONCEPTUAL FRAMEWORK

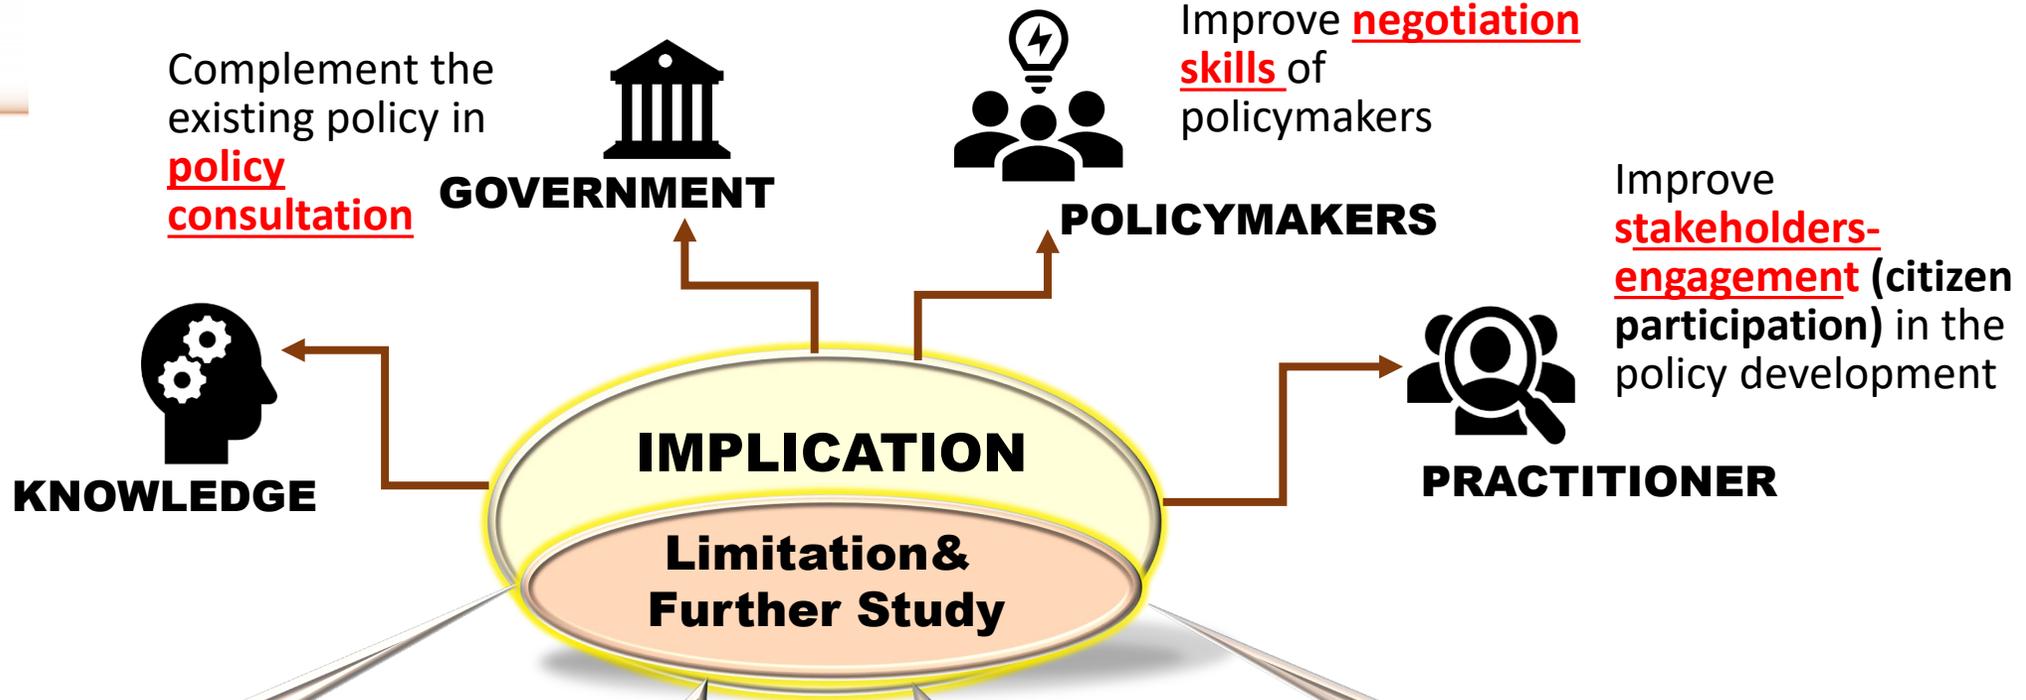

NEGOTIATION-BASED POLICYMAKING FRAMEWORK

CONCLUSION

Empirical reference of developing countries negotiation in policymaking process
Contribution to body of knowledge in the field of policymaking and conflict resolution

Quantitative research to measure the extent of policy participants' understanding on negotiation

The role of other conflict management's tools in policy process (mediation/coalition)

The other stages of policy process (implementation / evaluation)

Policy and politic in policy process
